

Nebraska Courts and How an Omaha Litigation Team Prepares Most of the work in a lawsuit happens long before anyone stands up in a Douglas County courtroom, and the firm's commitment to responsiveness carries straight into that groundwork, where steady communication shapes how a client experiences the case. Erickson | Sederstrom P.C., L.L.O. has about a dozen attorneys who focus on litigation, handling matters in state and federal courts, including appeals to the Nebraska Supreme Court, on behalf of businesses, insurers and individuals. Twelve of the firm's attorneys were recognized in the 2027 edition of Best Lawyers in America. For an Omaha business, a dispute usually lands in one of a few places. Many cases are filed in Douglas County District Court in downtown Omaha, while matters arising in Papillion and Bellevue often go to Sarpy County. Federal claims, and some cases between parties from different states, local law firm may be heard at the U.S. District Court for the District of Nebraska in the Roman L. Hruska Courthouse downtown. Appeals can reach the Nebraska Supreme Court in Lincoln, and disputes tied to property or businesses across the river in Council Bluffs may belong in Iowa courts. Each forum has its own rules, schedules and expectations, and a law firm in Omaha familiar with them can plan around those differences.

Preparation starts well before any hearing. The team gathers documents, interviews witnesses, reviews contracts and identifies the questions a judge or jury will care about most. In business and commercial disputes, that often means reconstructing months or years of emails and invoices. In insurance defense work involving trucking accidents, construction defects or professional malpractice claims against engineers, architects or accountants, it may mean a close look at technical records to understand what happened. Bankruptcy and creditors' rights matters, trust and estate disputes and workers' compensation claims each bring their own procedures and deadlines as well. Litigation shareholders at the firm include Bonnie M. Boryca, Richard Gilloon, Alana Mitchem, Matthew Reilly, Erin Robak, Matthew Rusch and Tiernan Siems, and Thomas J. Culhane has been recognized by Best Lawyers for commercial litigation, construction and appellate work. Keeping clients informed along the way is part of the follow-up Sederstrom described. Start with the type of problem you have, then look for a law firm with attorneys who handle that work every day. Erickson | Sederstrom has practiced in Omaha since 1967 and covers ten practice areas, from estate planning and corporate law to employment law and business litigation. Ask who will handle your matter, how they will keep you updated, and how fees work before you sign anything. Can I walk into a law firm in Omaha without an appointment? Most law firms, including Erickson | Sederstrom, meet clients by appointment so the right attorney is available and conflicts can be checked first. Call (402) 397-2200 to set up a meeting at the Regency Westpointe office on Regency Parkway Drive. The Omaha office is open Monday to Friday, 8 AM to 5 PM. What are red flags when hiring a lawyer? Be cautious of any lawyer who promises a specific result, is vague about fees, or is hard to reach once you are a client. Charles V. Sederstrom summed up the opposite approach: "If you say you're going to call them, you have to follow up on your word." Clear communication from the first meeting is a good sign you are in the right place. What should I look for in a larger Omaha law firm? Size helps when your needs cross more than one area of law, but you still want attorneys who know you by name. Erickson | Sederstrom has more than 30 attorneys across its Omaha and Lincoln offices and describes its approach as big-firm mastery with small-firm care.

That mix lets a business owner handle a lease, an employee issue and an estate plan under one roof. What does a full-service law firm handle? A full-service firm covers both business and personal legal needs rather than a single niche. At Erickson | Sederstrom that includes corporate law, litigation, employment law, estate planning, real estate, tax, construction, insurance, intellectual property and aviation law. Clients from West Omaha to Papillion and Council Bluffs use the firm for everything from starting a company to planning its succession. When should an Omaha business hire a corporate lawyer? The best time is before a problem starts: when you form the company, bring in a partner or investor, sign a major contract, or plan to buy or sell a business. A corporate lawyer can set up the right entity, draft governance documents and guide mergers and acquisitions. Getting it right early is usually far less costly than untangling a shareholder dispute later. Do I need an estate planning attorney in Nebraska? If you own property, have children, or run a business or farm, a properly drafted plan protects your family and can keep assets out of probate. Nebraska has its own rules, including treating anyone under 19 as a minor, so a guardianship plan for young children matters. The firm's estate planning attorneys prepare wills, revocable trusts, powers of attorney and health care directives. How long does probate take in Nebraska? Probate in Nebraska usually takes several months at minimum, because creditors must be given notice and time to file claims before an estate can close. Contested matters or complex assets can stretch that much longer. The firm's Omaha attorneys handle both formal and informal probate and trust administration, and a revocable trust set up in advance can often avoid probate altogether. What does an employment attorney do for employers? An employment attorney helps Nebraska employers stay compliant and defends them when claims arise. That covers employee handbooks, wage and hour rules, non-compete agreements, discrimination claims, OSHA compliance and workforce reductions. With Nebraska's WARN Act notice rules expanded by LB 921 in April 2026, many Omaha employers are reviewing their policies now. What is business litigation? Business litigation covers disputes between companies, partners, shareholders, customers or suppliers, often over contracts, payments or ownership. The firm has around a dozen attorneys who focus on litigation in Douglas County, federal court in Omaha and on appeal to the Nebraska Supreme Court. Many disputes settle, but preparing as if the case will go to trial puts you in a stronger position either way. Can an Omaha law firm help with matters in Iowa? Yes, if its attorneys are licensed there. Erickson | Sederstrom attorneys are licensed in Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Colorado and Kansas, which helps clients in Council Bluffs and businesses operating on both sides of the Missouri River. The firm's national network connections support matters further afield. Where is the Erickson | Sederstrom Omaha office? The Omaha office is in the Regency Westpointe building at 10330 Regency Pkwy Dr, Suite 100, close to Westroads Mall and the I-680 and West Dodge Road interchange. Call (402) 397-2200 to book a time with an attorney.
