Prepare for a Miramar Primary Care Visit

A Miramar, Broward County, primary care appointment is easier when you arrive with clear questions and a short symptom history. A primary care doctor can coordinate preventive medicine, family health, and senior care services. National Jewish Health's "Questions To Ask Your Doctor" recommends preparing questions before the office visit so you are less likely to forget concerns.

What to Bring to the Doctor

Bring:

- Current medication list and medical records.
- A one-week symptom log, including when symptoms started and how severe they are.
- Specific questions about heart health, senior medical needs, or follow-up care.
- A notebook or companion to record instructions.

UCLA Health's "How to talk to your doctor about mental health" suggests tracking mood symptoms for about a week and describing them in measurable terms.
