Anyone who has parked a car outside in Roanoke during April knows the yellow film that settles on everything. The valley sits surrounded by forested ridges, and when the oaks and pines release their pollen, it finds its way through every open window, every door and every pet that comes in from the yard. A professional spring cleaning service is one of the best ways to reset your home once the worst of it passes.

The Happy Housekeepers offers spring and fall cleanings as part of its specialized services, and spring is the season when they make the biggest difference. Pollen and dust collect on window sills, ceiling fans, blinds and baseboards, and they sink into carpets and upholstery. A standard visit already covers dusting and polishing Roanoke janitorial services furniture, vacuuming carpets and mopping floors, but a spring clean can go further with wall and woodwork washing and cleaning light fixtures.

Timing helps. Many Roanoke residents book a deep spring clean in May, after the heaviest pollen days have passed, so the house does not get coated again a week later. Others combine an early spring visit with a recurring plan that keeps dust under control through the season. Weekly and bi-weekly visits are especially popular from March through June for households with allergies, since regular dusting of blinds, fans and sills keeps the build-up from returning.

Spring is also when people tackle the jobs they have been putting off all winter. Cleaning inside the oven and refrigerator, washing down walls in high-traffic hallways and clearing out the basement are all on the company's specialized list. Rather than spending a sunny weekend indoors with buckets and sponges, many families in Cave Spring, Salem and Hollins prefer to hand those tasks to a team that does them every day.

Because employees are bonded and insured, you can schedule your spring clean while you are at work or out enjoying the Roanoke River Greenway. The company supplies its own products and equipment, and if you prefer a specific product on hardwood floors or stainless appliances, just let the crew know. After your first visit, the office calls to make sure you are happy with the results.

Book early, because spring is one of the busiest times of year for any cleaning service in Roanoke.
