

Purchasing a violin in Singapore is a significant decision, and the experience of buying from a knowledgeable luthier is very different from selecting an instrument off a shelf without guidance. LVL Music Academy in Bukit Timah offers exactly that guided experience, with co-founder Alan Senejani available to help customers find the instrument that matches their playing level, technique, and budget. Alan is a trained violin luthier and restorer whose attention to detail extends to every aspect of an instrument's construction and playability. When a customer visits LVL's violin shop, Alan takes the time to assess tonal qualities, set-up condition, and structural integrity before recommending a purchase. This is the kind of service that transforms a transaction into an education. The violin shop at LVL carries instruments across Helpful site a wide price range, from well-set-up beginner violins to fine handcrafted instruments with significant collector and performance value. Each instrument is assessed and set up by Alan before being offered for sale, ensuring that every violin leaving the shop plays and sounds as well as it possibly can.
